Using Adjectives

To keep a reader interested in your story, you need to give them a good description of where the story is happening.

1 Read this description.

The tall lighthouse stood on the rocky headland. Its bright light made us blink with each warning flash.

This description uses words called adjectives. An adjective describes a noun (a thing). Underline these adjectives in the sentence above: tall, rocky, bright, warning. What do they describe?

Tall describes the _____.

Rocky describes the _____.

Bright describes the _____.

Warning describes the _____.

2 Use some of the adjectives in the box below to describe the following settings on another page. You can use more than one adjective in the description of each setting.

scary, enormous, eye-popping, windy, huge,
mossy, sandy, wide, cool, fierce, fiery

a roller-coaster ride

a double-storey house

a beach in winter

a creek

a bushfire
